UTTERLY DESTROY IT.

The Commercial Travelers' Republican Club, at its regular meeting last night, was addressed by W. W. Thornton and several members of the club. The Hon. Will Cumback was to have spoken at the meeting, but he was unable to do so. A letter received by the president of the club stated that he had made an open-air speech yesterday afternoon and had overtaxed his voice. Members of the club responded willingly when called upon to express their views on the topics of the day, and there was no lack of interest throughout the meeting. Mr. Thornton spoke on the silver question principally, though he touched upon the other issues of the campaign. Regarding the plank of the Democratic platform which provides for the nullification of certain contracts he said:

"When we read the Democratic platform we may well be astonished at the extreme length its framers propose to go in order to uphold the cause of full and unlimited coinage of silver. The leaders of the cause of silver were shrewd enough to perceive that great opposition would arise to a greater use of silver than we have at LOST-At market Thursday morning, a gold the present time. Looking at the past and sword stick pin with small diamond. Return to the present, they knew men would exercise the right of contract in the future, and draw obligations payable only in gold. MONEY NEEDED FOR 1897

"There is no prohibition in the federal Constitution which forbids Congress enacting a law that impairs the obligations of a contract; the prohibition in that instrument forbidding the impairment of the obligations of a contract applies only to State legislation, not to legislation by Congress, But so universal has become the rules of construction that a statute applies only to events taking place after its enactment, that courts will not apply its provisions to transactions of the past unless such provisions are so broad and so clear and explicit that there is no escaping the intention of the Legislature, that the statute should govern and control contracts then aiready in force. The framers of the platform evidently had this in view when they constructed that instrument. It is the evident purpose of these gentlemen to enact a law providing that all debts, although they may be payable in gold, can be discharged in silver, and absolutely prohibiting the making of a contract payable only | the bonds of sympathy and union are

Mr. Johnson informed him that he did not believe the board would consider liberty, in order to afford these owners and traders in silver a market for their wares It would seem that these gentlemen hesisult they desire. Indeed, in view of this proposed revolution of the fair fabric of Grand Circuit Meeting Attracting our government, founded by the wise fathers of the past, we may, without a stretch of imagination, believe they are ready to adopt the assertion of an eccentric Three races each day are provided for on Governor of a Western State, who declared he would ride in blood until it reached the bridle bit, in order to further the cause

For this liberty Cromwell, the greatest of Englishmen, and his ironsides fought on Marston Moor. "This, fellow-citizens, deprives a man of the freedom of contract, just as much as if a law were enacted that a man could not buy a house or any other article of merchandise. To what goal will the exercise of such a power bring us; and to what extremities will the advocate of free silver so in favor of his cause? They propose to destroy the freedom of contract in one instance, will they not do it in others, and in others of vital interest to political freedom? The destruction of freedom of contract is a thing we should carefully con-sider, before casting our lot with the pres-

"We know how watchful England is over the interests of her citizens who invest in foreign public securities. To-day one of the chief reasons why Turkey is not brought to an account by England for her Armenian outrages is because such action might jeopardize the payment of Turkish bonds held by English capitalists. We all remember that England made war on Egypt in the interest of English bondholders, and to-day practically has that ancient country in the hands of a receiver to collect the taxes and discharge her obligations due to English capitalists.

Many of the members are leaving for their members are about to leave the old homestead and battle with the practical world. so feel the members of the Bethany family. Yesterday morning Professor Dungan gave his 9 o'clock lecture on the subject of "Soul Winning." He first spoke of some of the mistakes people make in uniting with the church; they join for the sake of the country, or as a stepping stone to or to gain public favor. Again they join in heart, in thought, in deed; always speak work of soul saving; tincture your serdisciples. Live in such a manner that you will have a personal influence among the people; interest others in working for the their home and business life, for sympathy has great power for doing good." The assembly lecture was given by Rev J. L. Hudgins, of Martinsville, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, His subject was "Broken Apron Strings." In part he said: "Mother is the strongest word in the English language; it acts like is her sympathy. The highest honor God greatest responsibility ever conferred upon of the emancipator of four millions of slaves. 'All that that I ever hope to be I owe to my angel mother,' express the truth in all successfu while every wreck and ruin indicates the absence of a mother's influence. It is the nature of a mother to protect her offspring; and I appeal to every mother to-day to throw every possible protection around her child. "Fill the land with pious and faithful mothers, and soon we shall have the land full of patriotic men. Mothers are the world's redeeming influence. Schools, colleges, churches are confessedly helps in their work, but to the mother God has intrusted the formation of character. Every mother should be an angel of protection to children. My remedy for national affairs lies not in legislation, but in the faithful efforts of mothers in shaping the character of the Nation's citizens." The afternoon was given up to a discussion of the healing powers of Christian

STATE FAIR ARRANGEMENTS Races Will All Be Two Out of Three Heats-Premium Changes.

The Indiana State fair this year will be held Sept. 14-19. The premium lists, which are now being mailed to exhibitors, have some changes in them from the list last year, which is especially important to exhibitors throughout the State. Last year in the live stock department diplomas were awarded to sweepstake shows. This year they have been displaced, and cash premiums have been offered in their stead. The number of premiums awarded has been greatly increased from last year, especially be enacted in favor of the cause of free in the live stock department. Where before there were two awards made, this year there will be three. The race programme represents an outlay > of about $10,000, and is divided between trotters and pacers, giving eight races to each of the light harness horses. The programme for Tuesday, Sept. 15, is 2:30 trot, 2:23 pace, 2:14 pace, 2:12 trot. For Wednesday, 2:30 pace, 2:20 trot, free-for-all pace, 2:20 pace. Thursday, 246 trot, 2:17 trot, trot. Friday, free-for-all 2.35 pace, 2:26 trot, special feature of the rules controlling races is that all are mile heats, two best in three, instead of three best in five, as is usually the case. The races are also limited to four heats, and at that time if no horse has won two heats, the money will be divided as the horses then rank. Spectators will witness a new race every little while, and will not tire watching the same field of horses score time after time. An important matter fore horsemen to know is a change that has been made in the official programme, changing the 2:10 2:09. There are so many horses that have acquired records recently that are eligible to the 2:09 and not to the 2:10, that it has made this change necessary. Entries have already been received at the office of the secretary, and since the entries close on the 7th of September, almost a month from this date, this is very encouraging. Judging from the fairs that have already taken place throughout the State, the attendance at fairs this year is going to be equal, if not ahead of, former number 30,000 have associated themselves with the Keeley League. Mr. Barry asserts that there are thousands of others who ought to be in the league who hold back from becoming identified with it, as they do not care to have it known that they have taken the treatment. The purpose of the organization, he says, is to extend the cause of temperance, and it is designed to encourage and uphold those who have taken the treatment. He says that many

In many States the league has used its in-luence to secure the passage of laws authorizing county officials to provide the means for sending indigent inebriates to some institute for treatment. In one of the great Northwestern cities the Mayor succeeded in inducing the city officials to try the experiment of sending prisoners at the workhouse who were habitual drunkards to a cure, and it was demonstrated that a large amount of money was saved

SUBLIBRARY STATIONS. A Little Work Done by Miss Florence Howe Shows Their Advantage.

For the last three years Miss Plorence Howe has been endeavoring to give numbers of people in the northeastern part of the city opportunities that they otherwise would not have. Three years ago she started a Sunday school in a room in a dwelling house and succeeded in gathering in numbers of adults and children. A great many were too poor to buy reading matter and Miss Howe asked, through her friends and a number of the churches, for books with which to start a library. Out of the collection of books thus made there were about fifty that were really worth placing in the reach of the people. She has had this library on Columbia avenue, where it has been read through by every one in othe neighborhood. When the people there were through with it, the library was moved to a house on Martindale avenue. The same hard reading was given to the books by the people there and now they have been placed in a house on Hillside avenue. But the books which were in none too good condition when first presented for the library, have become mutilated by much handling and are really only fit for the waste basket. During the last three nonths the library has been patronized by .885 persons, which shows the need of just what the new library committee has suggested, and that is to have substations. There are scores of people who would be glad to get books from the library to read, but the books are in one building in the center of the city and many of these ecopie rarely come down town. The men rent or buy property in the neighborhoods where they are at work, and the journey down town is too far to walk and the people are
